"Using air as a building material means that the amount of material you need is very minimal so you can dedicate your forces to the relations between animal and man, and man and plants, and make an environment which is in equilibrium."
Frei Otto

Lightweight structures have been regularly applied in the field of human construction, and have been so for more than ten thousand years. They have recently seen a considerable expansion due to the promising prospects that they offer, accounting for a larger proportion of the overall volume of buildings. The last few decades have brought numerous significant innovations in terms of materials, design and computation tools, as well as construction detailing and installation methodology. As a consequence of such innovative applications, membrane construction now has an established place in the field of Architecture.

However, some imperative questions arise. At what stage of development are the best built examples today? How will textile architecture evolve in the near future? Can we expect any major innovation in this area? What part of our imagination still remains to be explored today? Will current technical advancements in materials production lead to lighter and more efficient structures and to greater environmentally sustainable enclosures? What is the biggest challenge of the next few decades in the field of tent construction? Can we envision a future where unknown durable and recyclable materials will contribute to decrease the current conflicts between society and nature?

The 6th International TensiNet Symposium, "Softening the Habitats. Sustainable Innovation in Minimal Mass Structures and Lightweight Architectures" aims to face this complexity. Three mornings of inspiring keynote lectures plus a number of plenary sessions, followed by just as many afternoons of parallel sessions and an open talk, will create a very special event where experts in the areas of membrane architecture and engineering, as well as researchers and industry representatives, are invited to contribute to constructive debates on soft structures, softening the environment and soft skins.

Title and Short Abstract

You must copy and paste your whole abstract here, as written in the uploaded PDF file (including references).

The screenshot shows the 'Step 2. Entering the Submission's Metadata' form in the EKO system. The form includes sections for Authors, Title and Short Abstract, Indexing, and Supporting Agencies. The 'Add Author' button is highlighted in red in the original image, and the 'Short Abstract' text area is also highlighted in red. The form is titled 'Step 2. Entering the Submission's Metadata' and includes a progress bar with steps: 1. START, 2. ENTER METADATA, 3. UPLOAD SUPPLEMENTARY FILES, 4. CONFIRMATION. The 'Authors' section has fields for First name, Middle name, Last name, Email, URL, and Affiliation. The 'Title and Short Abstract' section has fields for Title and Short Abstract. The 'Indexing' section has a Language dropdown menu. The 'Supporting Agencies' section has a text area for Agencies. The footer of the page includes 'Powered by METO - Politecnico di Milano' and 'Conference website | Contacts'.

The screenshot shows the EKO submission system interface. At the top, there is a navigation bar with the Politecnico di Milano logo and the text "POLITECNICO MILANO 1863 METID". The main header includes "EKO" and a navigation menu with "CONFERENCE HOME", "ABOUT", "SEARCH", "ANNOUNCEMENTS", and "##INFO##". The user is logged in as "Welcome ABE" and can access "SER HOME" or "LOG OUT".

The current page is titled "Step 3. Uploading Supplementary Files" and is part of a submission process. The breadcrumb trail is "EKO Home > User Home Home > Author > Submissions > New Submission". The progress bar shows four steps: 1. START, 2. ENTER METADATA, 3. UPLOAD SUPPLEMENTARY FILES (highlighted), and 4. CONFIRMATION.

The text explains that this optional step allows Supplementary Files to be added to a submission. The files, which can be in any format, might include (a) research instruments, (b) data sets, which comply with the terms of the study's research ethics review, (c) sources that otherwise would be unavailable to readers, (d) figures and tables that cannot be integrated into the text itself, or other materials that add to the contribution of the work.

The "Upload supplementary file" section contains a file selection interface. A red box highlights the "Scogli file" button, the text "Nessun file selezionato", and the "Upload" button. Below this, there are "Save and continue" and "Cancel" buttons.

A red box with a line pointing to the "Upload" button contains the text: "Upload your supplementary PDF file! Then, Save and Continue."

On the right side, there is a "Help" section with a question mark icon and links to "Online manual", "Author guide", "Reviewer guide", "Conference Manager guide", and "Disclaimer!".

The main content area has a breadcrumb trail: 'EKO Home > User Home Home > Author > Submissions > New Submission'. A progress indicator shows four steps: '1. START', '2. ENTER METADATA', '3. UPLOAD SUPPLEMENTARY FILES', and '4. CONFIRMATION' (highlighted in blue). The text explains that clicking 'Finish Submission' will send an email acknowledgment and allow the user to track the submission progress. Below this is a 'File Summary' section with a table header: 'ID', 'ORIGINAL FILE NAME', 'TYPE', 'FILE SIZE', and 'DATE UPLOADED'. The table is empty, with the message 'No files have been attached to this submission.' Below the table are two buttons: 'Finish Submission' (highlighted with a red box) and 'Cancel'. On the right side, there is a 'Help' sidebar with links to 'Online manual', 'Author guide', 'Reviewer guide', 'Conference Manager guide', and 'Disclaimer!'. The main navigation menu includes "CONFERENCE HOME", "ABOUT", "SEARCH", "ANNOUNCEMENTS", and "##INFO##". The page title is "EKO". Below the title, there is a breadcrumb trail: "EKO Home > User Home Home > Author > Submissions > Active Submissions". The main content area has a heading "Active Submissions" and a message: "Submission complete. Thank you for submitting your work to Softening the Habitats: Sustainable Innovations in Minimal Mass Structures and Lightweight Architectures." Below this message, there is a link "» Active Submissions" which is highlighted with a red box. A red callout box points to this link with the text: "By clicking on Active Submissions, you can see your final submissions." On the right side, there is a "Help" section with a question mark icon and a list of links: "Online manual", "Author guide", "Reviewer guide", "Conference Manager guide", and "Disclaimer!". At the bottom, there is a footer with "Policy", "Powered by METID - Politecnico di Milano", and "Conference website | Contacts".

Your submission is successfully completed. You will receive a confirmation email shortly.
